WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE PLANES

KIT AIRCRAFT:

All Aircraft kits come with everything necessary to produce a complete and flyable airplane right from the box. Some models include basic flight and engine instrumentation. Communications equipment is not provided. A few designs use a dope and fabric covering process or use sheet metal skins where the builder furnishes the finishing paint. Other kits come with pre-sewn Dacron skins that are ready to slip on assembled frame work. Kits may be purchased with the engine including total engine install hardware for a simple solution where all the engineering is completed for the builder. Kits may also be purchased without the engine or less firewall forward for custom power plant installations. All kits are the "assemble type", requiring only simple hand tools to build the entire aircraft. There is no welding or fabrication from raw materials to construct assemblies. The approach here is to simply bolt the kit together and go flying. A few models are now available with many pre-built options where much of the work is completed leaving only final assembly tasks. Ask the sales representative for details.

ENGINES AND FIREWALL FORWARD KITS:

Engines prices depend on the engine selected and the matching firewall forward kit for the installation. Some models are available with optional engine selections, such as the Rotax 912 from 80 to 100hp. or the Jabiru 3300, 120 hp. engine. Talk with the sales representative for specifics and pricing.

CERTIFIED AIRCRAFT:

All RANS aircraft kits qualify as "Sport Planes".
